PT 585•H™

THE PLAYER'S UTILITY METAL

The new 585•H utility metal blends the best playing characteristics of fairway metals and long irons to provide greater versatility and shot-making options from the tee, fairway and rough. Developed with input from Tour professionals, the new 585•H offers fairway metal-type launch with a faster ball flight for trouble control.

Technology and Shot Control Insulated laser pipes for greater accuracy. A wider sole with a deep CG increases higher ball launch and generates less backspin. The shorter loam profile is set right with a lower peak trajectory for additional carry and less spin for superior control. Four different loft specifications allow for precise long game play.

Deep, Compact, Tapered Grooves with a perfectly square face angle provides a consistent, long ball trajectory.

Micro-Offset Design reduces the ideal ball flight with a considerable spin for accuracy and shot control.

Multi-Material Construction with a soft 42L urethane steel body provides a sweet, solid feel with a long, 45.5 carbon steel face insert creates maximum ball speed over the entire face area.

20g Te Negative Weight in the sole pushes the CG low and deep for history-making structural strength with greater control.

Modified Bore-Ten increases weight from the heel to optimize the CG location in the center of the clubface for maximum energy transfer. A polymer "Nanoscale" polypropylene inserts for consistent speed and feel.

Wide, Shallow Face offers a larger hitting area than comparable long irons for generally playability and confidence.

Overcasted Sole with hollow sole, white urethane grooves and precision chisel, adds consistent stability of face.

Thin Face Design increases higher velocity and reduces weight to be equalized lower, to the perimeter for increased forgiveness and playability.

Enhanced Head-Box Weighting redistributes 10 grams of weight from the face to a higher concentration of front and groove adjacent stability.

Vibrates Dampening Chix absorb the shock and significantly reduce vibration for greater feel and performance around and on ball.

High-Performance Sole with a rolled leading edge promotes digging in soft conditions. Progressive bounce angle reduces digging in firmer conditions for dry, consistent contact.

Optimized CG Position offers an upright launch with a considerable ball flight.

Deaf Head Length reduces weight lower in the 2-7 iron to create total launch with longer heads in the 5-P irons for CG slightly to superior front-downcast.

Soft, Forged Feel of 430 stainless steel with a non-glass worn finish causes the soft ball contact preferred by better players and delivers for a wider range of custom options.

Progressive Appearance of the irons, offset, sole width and black length possible contrasts through the set for a seamless transition from flight to bag to ensure consistent club lines.

Stable Steel Body is forged in the mid-section of the 6061-T6 aluminum body to allow proper weight distribution and OC placement.

Precision-Milled Toe Pocket finished with a hardened aluminum insert for a perfectly balanced head-toe weight distribution to ensure proper square foot contact.

Stable Steel Backweight strategically weights the crown of the putter for an unusually high moment of inertia. A vibration dampening ring around the backweight ensures superior sound and feel.
